Retaliatory Move To Hit New Haven

State officials may move to halt New York to Boston passenger service on the New Haven railroad as a last-ditch measure to prevent abandonment by the road of its Old Colony Division, it was learned today following a conference of Attorney General Paul A. Dever and his assistant, Edward Pece.

STOCKS SPEED UP ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange closed a week of rallying prices today with a new upswing that carried leading shares $1 to around $2 higher and even more, in a few cases.

So intent were buyers to get in on the movement that transactions were at the fastest pace for a Saturday since April 8.

Relief that business activity, which has survived the normal summer dullness by unexpected gains in many industries will continue on the upgrade, was assigned by brokers as the primary reason for the rally along with the easing of tension in European affairs.

Steel, motor, miscellaneous manufacturing and rail shares were prominent among the gainers. At the finish, S. Steel was $2.25 up at $5.12, General Motors had gained 1.12 at $48.87, Westinghouse Electric 1.25 at $110, and Great Northern 50 cents at $27.25.

Threat of the startling retaliatory action was made as Governor Saltonstall and Attorney General Dever prepared to confer with mayors, selectmen and members of the legislature from South Shore communities at a meeting at the State House on Monday.

According to the assistant attorney general, who is handling the state's fight against the abandonment-affecting 2,000,000 persons in South Shore communities—state officials may move to withdraw the franchise privileges from the New England railroad and the Boston & Providence railroad.

Such action, according to Pece, would prevent the New Haven from bringing trains into Boston.

CONSIDER MOVE

Among other things Pece said the New Haven trustees would like to purchase the Boston and Providence railroad, at a bargain price, but that the owners of the Boston & Providence insist on the payment of a fair price.

He further stated that the parties are so far apart on price that no negotiations are pending tending toward purchase. The Boston & Providence railroad was formerly under lease to the New Haven and many of the New Haven's trains from New York come over the Boston & Providence company's right of way.

The New Haven trustees rejected a lease of the Boston & Providence Railroad in July, 1938, and acted similarly with respect to the Old Colony in June, 1938.

The New England railroad's passenger service begins at Waterbury and comes into Boston via

A WPA Job

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 22 (AP)—To have it handy, County Auditor Leonard R. Thayer wrote the combination of the office safe right on the side.

WPA workers cleaning the courthouse came along and scrubbed the safe, wiping out Thayer's memento.

Now he can't get it open.

TRAVEL OF MILLIONS, via Boston's South Station, is in jeopardy if "revenge" threat is carried out to bar New Haven road from use of Providence-Boston line.

POLICE SECRECY CLAMPED DOWN ON 'COP CRIME'

A lid of complete official secrecy was clamped down today on the police department's investigation of "crime ring" charges against four patrolmen.

The secrecy was ordered by Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty, according to the special board of three deputy superintendents Timilty appointed yesterday.

In spite of the secrecy, however, it was learned that three state prison convicts and a Deer Island inmate are listed as first of more than 20 persons to be grilled in connection with former Patrolman Paul A. Petzold's amazing alleged confession.

NAMES FOUR POLICE

Petzold named one East Boston officer and three from the Roxbury Crossing station as implicated in a series of burglaries and safe-crackings, police said.

The Boston Evening American learned that the officers accused by Petzold were held immediately to police headquarters, where they were asked to confirm or deny statements made by the ex-patrolman.

Today, however, Acting Superintendent of Police John M. Anderson announced flatly that the department "crime ring" probe would be wholly secret.

Anderson said the special board, including himself and his fellow

'Impeach!' Cry in Sift On Pardons

Two of the seven members of the special pardons investigating commission definitely favor immediate impeachment of a state official of long standing as principal—possibly sole—"racketeer" in pardons and paroles, it was learned today.

The first move for the official's impeachment would have been begun had it not been for the insistence of the other five probers to await such evidence as may be revealed in public hearings beginning Wednesday. The five are known to favor the move but would rather be sure of irrefutable evidence first.

"In my opinion the commission already is in possession of sufficient evidence to ask the legislature to impeach this man and I think they will," one of the two members who demand impeachment asserted.

It is claimed that the commission has evidence involving the official in question in a chain of conspiracies to obtain the release of prisoners from state institutions over a period of 10 years past.

DENIES 'PLOT'

Questioned concerning the proposed impeachment proceedings, Rep. Roland D. Sawyer (D.) of Ware, a member of the pardon committee, declined to comment, but when asked about a story current in the State House that the move was a Republican plot, he said:

"I have not as yet seen the story about which you speak in connection with the investigation being a Republican plot. To impeach a Democratic officeholder, but I want to say there is no basis at all for this investigation being called a partisan plot. It was originated, has been carried on, and I feel sure will be carried on, as a matter of public service to cleanse the state of the farced case. That purpose will be carried out, let the chips fall where they may. We shall not be swayed from our purpose no matter what may be hit."

PROBE GOES ON

Sen. Jarvis Hunt of North Attleboro, chairman of the commission said:

"The investigation of the commission is still going on, and if we obtain any evidence calling for impeachment proceedings against any official, we'll certainly take such action—regardless of whom it may affect."

BOWKER'S COMMENT

Representative Philip C. Bowker of Brookline, another member of the commission, declined comment on the impeachment plan, but added, significantly:

"We are following a definite plan and will not be jockeyed out of that planned procedure. It is enough to say that in a majority of the first 25 cases we have evidence of money having been passed."

It was announced that the first of the commission's public hearings will start Wednesday at 10:30 a. m., one of the witnesses to be Austin S. MacCormick, New York state commissioner of correction, recently engaged in cleaning up a pardon and parole racket in his state.

PLAN TRACK PROTEST

Hull townspeople today prepared to hold a protest mass meeting at their municipal building next Thursday night on the proposed dog race track at Nantasket beach.

Girl's Scream Traps Thief

An attractive girl's screams early today saved her dog-race winnings from a handbag snatcher who had followed her home from the Revere dog track after seeing her cash a winning ticket.

Later in the day, Daniel J. Hurley, 26, of Elm street, Charlestown, pleaded guilty before Judge Daniel A. Rollins in Brookline court to larceny from the person and was held in $1000 bail for the grand jury.

Police said Hurley told them he had lost all his money at the track, and, hoping to recoup illegally, had followed Miss Mary T. Norton of Juniper street, Brookline, home on the Elevated.

Hurley confessed, according to police, that he snatched Miss Norton's purse, containing $25, at Walter and Morris avenues, Brookline, and fled. Three men, warned by the girl's screams, grabbed him.

Boy, 11, Kills Sister In Row Over 2 Cents

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., July 22—Eleven-year-old Stanley Dobruk today confessed he shot his 14-year-old sister Frances to death during an argument over a two-cent debt.

MOTHER'S HEART LONELY

MRS. DICKRAN DADOURIAN
Longs for Missing Son

Link Bishop Murder To Boy's Kidnaping

The six-year-old slaying of an Armenian archbishop in New York—a crime which stirred Armenian colonies throughout the world—today was the only lead police had in the mysterious disappearance of Hovannes Dadourian, 16, former Chelsea youth and now a Yonkers high school student.

Thirst for revenge against the boy's father, Dickran Dadourian, who led a fight to convict the archbishop's slayers, now is linked by police with the youth's disappearance two weeks ago.

The elder Dadourian, long involved in the feuds of old Armenia, was the first to demand the killers of Archbishop Leon Tourian be tracked down and punished.

Archbishop Tourian was stabbed in front of his altar on Christmas Eve, 1933, as he prepared to conduct services.

"Definitely a kidnaping" was the verdict of police investigators as they pushed a search in Boston, New York and other Armenian centers today.

The Dadourian youth dropped from sight on the night of July 8 after leaving his home to attend a Yonkers moving picture theater.

No ransom demand has been made and investigators are certain the long-waiting conspirators have struck at the father through his son.

The Dadourian family were well known in the Chelsea Armenian colony about Second street before they moved to New York.

The elder Dadourian was one of a volunteer committee of Armenians who helped to convict nine fellow-countrymen of the murder of the archbishop, Leon Tourian, who was stabbed in front of his altar as he prepared to say mass on Christmas Eve, 1933. The churchman and Dadourian were close friends.

Two of the nine, all of them described as members of a secret Armenian revolutionary party, were sentenced to death.

The girl was shot with a .22 caliber rifle in the farm home of her parents shortly after noon yesterday while ironing in the kitchen.

Her three-year-old brother, John, in the kitchen when she was shot, pointed out Stanley as the killer, lisping in baby talk that Stanley was in the kitchen "when Frances fell."

STOLE HER 15 CENTS

It was the testimony of Baby John that led to a final break in the investigation after Stanley and his mother and father had been grilled 15 hours. Each had given conflicting stories.

Stanley changed his story after he was advised of what his baby brother told police. He said he argued with Frances because she refused to give him two cents she had promised him for picking raspberries. But he clung to his denial of murder several hours after changing his story.

Frances had refused to give him the two cents because she claimed he stole 15 cents she had wrapped in a handkerchief and placed in a dresser drawer.

"GUN WENT OFF"

Prosecutor Ivan A. Johnson quoted Stanley as saying he had been working in the field with his father, but had entered the house to argue with Frances over the two cents. The prosecutor said the boy told of putting a shell in a rifle found in the house apparently with the intent to frighten the girl.

Johnson said Stanley told him: "Suddenly the gun went off, and she fell to the floor."

The prosecutor said the boy would be turned over to juvenile court.

BARES HER 'LOVE LIFE' WITH PASTOR

FLINT, Mich., July 22 (AP)—The Rev. James Wilson Lane, 61-year-old part-time preacher charged with killing his wife, was held today for further examination in justice court, after Mrs. Helen Sherwood, 41, whom he employed as housekeeper, told on the witness stand of having had relations with him.

Mrs. Lane, also 61 and partly blind, was shot fatally in her home here July 7. Lane has maintained the shooting occurred accidentally while he was trying to remove a jammed cartridge from his rifle.

Mrs. Sherwood testified Mrs. Lane knew of the relations between Lane and herself, but she objected to an attempt to prove that she and Lane entered into an agreement to marry in the event of Mrs. Lane's death.

Oscar Warren, Mrs. Lane's brother, testified he had seen Lane and Mrs. Sherwood embrace "so often that we thought nothing of it." Mrs. Oscar Warren also testified Mrs. Sherwood, a divorcee, had embraced Lane publicly.

Lane worked part of the time in an automobile factory here and conducted services in a church at Frankenmuth, Mich.

Raps New Gas Tax As 'Tourist Chaser'

Massachusetts will become a "black spot" on tourists' maps if another hotel is made in the state gasoline tax, James B. Keefe of Lawrence, president of the Massachusetts Federation of AAA clubs, said today in an attack on Governor Sullivan's tax proposal.

Ideal Weather To Continue Over Weekend

Another weekend of perfect vacation weather was in prospect for Boston today, with fair and slightly warmer weather predicted for tomorrow.

Official forecasts said increasing cloudiness in some sections of Massachusetts might be followed by rain on the southeast coast.

New England farmers, hopeful of a drenching downpour for the sake of their crops, were reported consoled by continued cool temperatures minimizing effect of the recent dry spell.

Resort proprietors and many thousands of tourists, campers, fishermen and other vacationists were cheered by predicted continuance of blue skies, summer sunshine and refreshing air breezes.

Samples of blistering heat other sections of the country have been experiencing are found in temperature maximums in yesterday's weather bureau report for the preceding 24 hours. They include: Denver, 104; Fort Smith, Ark., 102; Dodge City, Kas., 105; Bismarck, N. D., 100; Abilene, Tex., 99; Huron, S. D., 91, and Phoenix, Ariz., 107.

REPORT GERMANY, ITALY IN 5-POWER PACT

'Solves All Major European Problems'

PHILADELPHIA, July 22 (AP)—The Philadelphia Inquirer carries a copyright dispatch from its Washington bureau today saying a five-power agreement which "settles every outstanding European problem" has been reached tentatively by Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Poland.

The newspaper says Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini will meet with Prime Minister Chamberlain, Premier Daladier and Colonel Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland, probably within two weeks, to ratify the agreement.

The accord, the Inquirer reported, consist of nine major points:

Danish would be returned to Germany, but under the technical classification of a free port, thus leaving it open to Polish commerce.

The status of the Polish corridor would be modified to satisfy both Germany and Poland, with Germany presumably having free access to East Prussia and Poland continuing to have free access to Danzig and her port at Gdynia.

Italy would be given representation on the directorate of the Suez Canal.

Italy would be given participation rights on the railroad linking Addis Ababa with French-owned Djibouti.

A neutralized zone would be established in North Africa opposite Gibraltar to insure British sovereignty there.

The present border between France and Italy would be permanently guaranteed.

The present border between France and Germany would be permanently guaranteed.

All other existing European frontiers would be guaranteed for 25 years.

The five powers would limit their regular armies to not more than 200,000 men for 25 years.

25-Year Peace Pact Denied in France

PARIS, July 22 (AP)—An official French spokesman declared today that reports published in the United States that a 25-year peace agreement had been reached tentatively by Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Poland were "without foundation."

Nazi Envoy Knows Nothing About a Loan

RICHMOND, July 22 (AP)—Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, German economic expert, returned today from London and said he was greatly pleased over the results of talks there with members of the inter-governmental committee for refugees.

He denied having conducted any negotiations for a general loan for Germany.

BRITISH DENY NAZI LOAN PACT

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—The British foreign office spoke out indignantly today about what it called "fantastic and irresponsible talk" of an impending broad agreement with Germany to have European peace.

It denied there were official negotiations of any kind.

"All talk of a large loan to Germany in return for partial disarmament is absolutely an official and purely academic."

Talk about the huge international loan to Germany to end European tension had centered about the visit here of Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, German trade ambassador.

GERMANY MUST CHANGE

The foreign office spokesman said Dr. Wohlthat did not even mention any plan for a general settlement.

"Before any scheme for a general settlement can be considered by the British government," the spokesman said, "there must be some evidence of Germany's willingness to change her policy."

"For example, it is extremely unlikely Britain could ever negotiate a settlement as long as the Germans are in France."

In spite of the spokesman's statement, it is known here Prime Minister Chamberlain has in fact discussed a plan to change Germany from a wartime to a peacetime economy.

One version of a new "peace deal" was set forth by Vernon Bartlett, foreign affairs writer in the News Chronicle.

CAN'T WIN QUICK WAR

This purported plan would call for Britain and France to point out to Germany she could no longer hope to win a "lightning war" and suggest:

"Therefore she should disarm, and in order to help her through a very difficult period of transition from wartime to peacetime economy, other governments should guarantee her a loan of about £100,000,000 (about $486,000,000)."

Another rumor, published by the Daily Mirror, was that Hitler already had hinted a readiness to promise Europe peace on condition he get a £500,000,000 (about $2,390,000,000) loan, "backed by all the democratic powers."

Still another and more conservative version of the peace talk background was that Wohlthat was told of a plan, long considered by "certain persons" in Britain and the United States, which would enable Germany to turn away from militarism and develop a healthy economic system.

OTHER LOAN PLAN

The plan was reported to be: 1—Partial disarmament by Germany followed by some international supervision of her arms production.

2—A £1,000,000,000 (about $4,860,000,000) loan to help convert German industry to normal peacetime production.

3—An international pool for colonial development in which Germany would share, but in which colonial sovereignty would remain unchanged.

U.S. Boy Still Likes Germany After Jail

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Thirty-two days in a German prison for writing a bit of doggerel about the Third Reich hasn't dampened 20-year-old William Bardwell Curtis' enthusiasm for Germany.

"I like Germany," he smiled on his arrival from abroad, "and if I ever go back to Europe I hope to visit it again."

The young American student was less worried over the treatment he had received than what his guardian, Bester Robinson of Oakland, Cal., would say.

EXPECTS PUNISHMENT

"When I get there I sure expect to catch hell," he said.

Curtis got in trouble with German authorities May 12 when he wrote the following jingle, freely translated, in the guest book of a Heidelberg hofbrau:

"The Fuehrer has no wife;
The farmer has no sow;
The butcher has no meat—
And that's the third Reich."

JAILED, THEN EXILED

Curtis said he wrote the verse in momentary pique after a big German had grabbed him and scratched out his signature from the guest book. Curtis, who was with friends, said the party had had "a few drinks."

Patrons of the beer hall bent him, Curtis said, until an agent of the Gestapo and the S. S. (the Elite Guard) took him in custody.

After his release from prison, he was told to leave the country or face trial under the German penal code. Curtis left—immediately. He

JAPS SEE VICTORY AT BRITISH PARLEY

TOKYO, July 22 (AP)—Agreement between British and Japanese representatives on the form and issues of negotiations over conflicting China policies was announced today and Japanese officials hailed it as a "great victory."

The cabinet approved the agreement after receiving a report from Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita in which he was quoted authoritatively as declaring "Britain has accepted all Japanese proposals" on subject matter and arrangements for the projected discussions.

Cabinet approval cleared the way for a general conference unless London disapproves the agreement. The general session probably will start next week.

Neutral sources conceded Japan had scored in the agreement, but Japanese exultation was dampened by the fact that London had failed to reply in the more than 24 hours since Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador, and Arita came to terms.

With Britain's approval their conversations would be joined by military and diplomatic aides.

AD NEARS SHIP OFF ALASKA

SEWARD, Alaska, July 22 (AP)—The Coast Guard Cutter Morris was proceeding across the Gulf of Alaska under forced draft today to the aid of the "Northwest Passage" bound schooner Pandora, which grounded yesterday off Cape St. Elias in southeastern Alaska.

The Morris, which left Seward at 4 p. m. yesterday when the lighthouse keeper at the cape reported the Pandora's accident, was expected to reach the made-over halibut schooner's side in 13 hours.

Few details were received here but it was believed that Dr. H. F. Kellmans, Oklahoma evangelist and explorer, head of the expedition, and the five members of his party were safe.

The lighthouse keeper's report merely said that the 38-foot vessel was aground and was full of water.

Coast guardsmen familiar with the area, approximately 50 miles southeast of Cordova, said the Pandora probably was close enough to shore to allow the six on board to reach the beach safely, provided no heavy sea was running.

Aboard the Pandora besides its skipper, were his daughter, Vivienne Kellmans, 21, University of Oklahoma junior; Cecil I. Brooks, cook; A. Y. Owen, photographer; Ira Jones, engineer and Leo Clark, radioman, all of Oklahoma City.

Stamps Used as Cash in Chinese Money Crisis

SHANGHAI, July 22 (AP)—Coolies were substituted for telephones and postage stamps were used for currency today as Shanghai's money crisis spread to affect nearly everyone in the city.

Although the Chinese dollar strengthened after yesterday's sharp declines, the crisis continued with these results:

Scores of stores refused to sell merchandise for local dollars, regardless of the price offered, because dealers feared further slumps.

Some stores quoted prices in foreign currencies.

Still others continued to do business in Chinese dollars and were thronged with customers, but every once in a while the proprietors would raise the prices with this announcement to the crowds:

"Higher prices are effective this instant lest we go bankrupt."

The city's American telephone system was unable to handle an avalanche of calls concerned with the money crisis, and consequently a horde of coolies ran to and fro carrying notes from excited would-be customers.

B.U. 'Ideal Pair' On Honeymoon

Claire Thout, pretty New Bedford girl, twice chosen as the "most perfect co-ed" at Boston University, today was honeymooning with her "perfect man," George R. Sommers of Arlington, her brand new husband.

The couple were married in St. James Church, Arlington, by the Rev. Maurice J. O'Connor, culminating a college romance which began when the bride was B. U.'s most beautiful girl and Sommers was a graduate engineer student at Northeastern.

Twice Claire received the title of "most perfect co-ed." She also earned such incidental honors as "best looking," "smoothest," "best dressed" and the senior "most likely to succeed."

Follow New Tracks In Boy Scout Hunt

MILLINOCKET, Me., July 22—Discovery of more footprints near the base of Mt. Katahdin today sent more than 400 searchers, including National Guardsmen, forest rangers, timber cruisers, guides and volunteers, on a new trail for missing Donn Fendler, but with scant hope that he still is alive.

ROMANCE BLOOMS ANEW for Lillian Roth, former Roxbury beauty and stage and screen star, as she makes divorce arrangements with her second (and present) husband, Judge Benjamin Shalleck, New York. Her third bid for marital bliss will be with Arthur Guttman, wealthy Texas oil operator. Above she and Judge Shalleck caught by camera before their love turned cold.

'Abe Lincoln' Delighted With Wife Swap Bridal

SUN VALLEY, Ida., July 22 (AP)—Raymond Massey, star of the Pulitzer prize play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," expressed both surprise and approval today at word his former wife had married the former husband of the present Mrs. Massey.

A change of wives by Massey and William Dwight Whitney, New York lawyer, was completed yesterday with Whitney's marriage in England to Adrienne Allen, the actress.

Massey is here on his honeymoon with Mrs. Dorothy Ludington Whitney Massey.

The marriage of Miss Allen and Whitney "was a complete surprise to both Mrs. Massey and me," said Massey, adding:

"We had no inkling of the other marriage plans and were literally bowled over upon reading of the ceremony in Sturington, Eng. However, I think it is a fine thing and I am sure that they will be supremely happy."

The latest trail believed to be that of the 12-year-old Rye, N. Y., Boy Scout was discovered near the Abol Trail, in less hazardous country than that in which the hunt previously was concentrated.

BOUNDS ON NEW TRAIL

Bloodhounds were transferred to the new scene at once.

Alfred Beaulieu, a fire warden, said he was confident that the new search "would lead to something encouraging." The change in locale came just as a call went out for expert mountain climbers to explore some of the most treacherous slopes on the mountain.

Young Fendler set out last Monday with his father, brother and a friend to climb to the summit of the mile-high peak.

The boys raced ahead of the lagging parent, and Don turned back to tarry with his father. He lost his way, and although several footprints found in varying sections of the mountain have given hope that searchers might come upon the object of the search, no definite trace has been found of him since.

NIGHTS COLD

Storms have swept the mountain almost nightly since he was lost while heavy mists hang about the summit all day, retarding the search. The temperature has dropped to 40, with chilling winds.

Veteran guides have pointed out that being lost in the five nights he has been lost, in the opinion of veteran guides.

A boy, lost without warm clothes, or food, could hardly survive two nights, let alone the five nights he has been lost, in the opinion of veteran guides.

Snite at Wedding In His 'Iron Lung'

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP)—Young Fred Snite, who has been to strange and faraway places with his iron lung, traveled to a wedding inside it today.

He was guest of honor at the marriage of his childhood friends, Mary Teresa Grass and Joseph Roy Murry. A full church ceremony he rode to a country club for a wedding breakfast and helped toast the bridal couple.

POOR LITTLE RICH BOY—Christopher "Topper" Reynolds, son of Actress Libby Holman and heir to Reynolds tobacco fortune has to earn his own spending money, his mother, recently rewed to Actor Ralph Holmes (both above) reveals. Vacationing at Cohasset, Miss Holman says she's determined the boy's riches shall not become "a curse."

TOBACCO HEIR, 7 EARNS OWN CASH

COHASSET, July 22—Christopher Reynolds, 7-year-old son of Libby Holman and one of America's wealthiest children, knows nothing about that "silver spoon" which so many of the young rich are leeches on.

He's a hard-working little fellow who earns his own spending money, according to his famed actress mother, rehearsing here for a summer theater production.

The curly-haired heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, known to friends as "Topper," does many a task to earn a fee of 25 cents, usually a chore at grass cutting at the family estate in Connecticut.

He doesn't push a lawn mower but when the gardener goes to work "Topper" follows behind picking up the mowings.

"I give him a quarter to do the job," Miss Holman revealed.

"And he bargains with me about the amount of work necessary. After carrying a few armfuls, he will ask:

"Mama, is that 12 cents' worth?"

"And I tell him it is. Pretty soon, he wants to know if he has done another cent's worth.

"He has no idea that he is a rich boy. In fact, someone overheard him saying that he hoped mama would get a job on the stage, because we needed the money."

Everett Man, 84, Dying of Auto Injury

An 84-year-old Everett man suffered serious injuries today when he was hit by an automobile in Highland ave., Everett, while on his way to the Immaculate Conception Church.

The victim, Thomas Maloney of Highland ave., was feared dying at Whidden Memorial Hospital. Doctors said he had a fractured right hip, severe shock and helped his internal injuries.

F. D.-Farley Break Widens Over Third Term

NEW YORK, July 22 (INS)—The New York Journal-American today said that Postmaster General James A. Farley arrived in New York today preparatory to a "show-down" with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park tomorrow on the third-term issue.

The Journal-American story added:

"Widespread reports credit the national and state Democratic chairman with private statements, that he is against a third term for the President, will tell him so, and intends to risk a split in the party to fight the President if he runs.

"There is no doubt, of course, that there is a serious break in the political relationship between the President and the man who successfully steered his 1932 and 1936 campaigns.

FARLEY DISAPPOINTED

"But many of Farley's friends view the reports as trial balloons he is sending up in an effort to clarify a situation that already has shaken the Democratic party to its roots.

"When Roosevelt and Farley sit down to have a heart-to-heart talk tomorrow at Hyde Park, therefore, it is anticipated they will have it out.

"Badly disappointed because of the manner in which the President has ignored him of late, and noticeably aged in appearance, the Postmaster-General undoubtedly will give the results of his recent 15,000-mile national tour to sound out sentiment.

"He may counsel against a third term, it is understood, but whatever decision the President makes will be kept between them for the time being.

"On July 28 Farley will sail for Europe on a seven-week tour because he is known to want to do the continent this year while he is still in his present position and has the time. He, no more than anyone else, knows nothing of what the future may hold.

"But this much is certain: He has told intimates in Washington that he will issue a statement either before he sails or immediately after his return, giving his own position in national affairs.

"The reports that Farley is against a third term and will fight the President if he runs originated in Washington.

"They were supposed to have originated from three Democratic Senators who made assertions that Farley had told them he was taking an anti-Roosevelt, anti-third term position.

FOR GOOD DEMOCRAT

"Yet, investigation shows one of the senators who spread the story is an eastern Republican.

"Farley is supposed to have said:

"I am placing the good of the country above party considerations. I am willing to assist in the nomination of a good Democrat for first place on the ticket."

"When asked if he would back down in his determination, according to the reports, he is said to have answered that he would not, adding:

"I am going to be a man."

"Democratic friends of Farley commented wryly that "it doesn't sound much like Jim," but took the reports at face value. They pointed out, however, that even if Farley does repudiate the story later and work for the President if he runs, friends of the Postmaster-General will not.

AFTER FARLEY'S JOB

"A case in point is the purged ex-congressman, John J. O'Connor, who has started a drive for a coalition of anti-New Deal Democrats. But Farley has let it be known publicly he doesn't care for the idea. O'Connor and Farley, of course, are very friendly.

"What is worrying Farley most are the repeated reports from Washington that the President, listening to No. 1 New Dealer Thomas G. Corcoran, is disposed to create a new national chairman.

"Candidates as Farley's successors include Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London, and Paul V. McNutt, the Indiana Adams, recently appointed federal social security administrator. McNutt, in fact, is talked of as a possible heir to the Roosevelt mantle, but Farley is in the dark on that.

"He is in possession of information, very probably, that shows the drift affairs are taking but he hasn't yet been told by the President. That is the reason for the Hyde Park conference."

Candid Camera Caught You!

Life of Slugger Ted Williams

From Solon to Night Club

Road's End for Mad Killers

by COLLIN CLINE

THERE is always something new; tomorrow the Boston Sunday Advertiser provides convincing proof.

The proof is to be found in the Candid Camera Cavalcade, a thoroughly delightful treasure hunt, with attractive prizes for scores of fortunate readers.

All week the candid cameramen of the Boston American, Daily Record and Sunday Advertiser have been touring the city, snapping unsuspecting passers-by. They've photographed shoppers, window gazers, businessmen, photographers dash-ing to lunch, and scores of commuters racing to the "next train."

Tomorrow, several of these pictures will be printed in the Advertiser. And the game will be to have the reader identify himself.

Each person who does will receive a beautiful color enlargement suitable for framing.

Ted Williams

TED WILLIAMS, the picturesque "hookie" and sensational slugger for the Red Sox, meets Advertiser baseball fans tomorrow.

Ted is the hero of a vivid story by Austin Lake, who tells all about the new sayings and doings of the popular "Fresh Busher."

Norma Miller

MURDER IN MANHATTAN is the theme of Burton Stevenson's gripping crime story in the American Weekly Magazine of the Advertiser.

Excitingly titled "The Red Carnation" and attractively illustrated in color, this tale of mystery and suspense tells how one little word—and a blood-stained flower—among several meager clues, were enough to unravel an amazing web of blackmail that had baffled the police.

A WHOLE DAY'S PLEASURE awaits the hundreds who clip the Advertiser coupon for the K. S. Steel Pier's Monday cruise to Provincetown.

Presentation of this coupon and payment of the REDUCED FARES will give these readers a thrilling, deep-sea trip to one of New England's most beautiful spots, famous for its abundant sunshine and good air. Particularly will parents and children take advantage of this excellent opportunity.

SOCIALITE CROONERS—Society girls who forsake the salons of evening society for nightclub microphones are frequently in the news. But seldom does the public know their real story—the obstacles that block their path to success, the grief and humiliation all must face. That is why the Sunday Advertiser makes them the subject of an interesting article tomorrow. It is a new kind of story, sympathetically told.

NOBODY WILL FAIL to enjoy the Advertiser's Green Magazine, which, among many other attractive features, reveals the INSIDE STORY of that thrilling, haunting "smash" scene, "Sunrise Seizure." The words that millions are singing and the tune loved by dancers everywhere have a most interesting "history."

MAY YOH'S OWN STORY will be concluded in the Green Magazine tomorrow, with this once internationally famous actress' analysis of her own life with a few weeks before her death in Boston. Also reaching its final chapter will be the true story, "The Mad Killers of the Bay State," tracing the grim events that led the notorious Miller-Faber gang to the electric chair in Charlestown.

ALL NEW ENGLAND will want to read the Advertiser's story of the Lusitania and the tragic sinking of that luxury liner 24 years ago. Today, with the world once more on the brink of war, the incident that stirred all America in 1915 and hastened the nation's participation in the Great Conflict is of especial interest.

Never before has a more thrilling or more realistic account of the Lusitania catastrophe been written.

HAY FEVER DAYS are here again, and sufferers from this distressing malady are, as usual, seeking the answer to "help troubles." Because of this, a distinguished medical authority, who has helped hundreds of persons to obtain relief from pain and discomfort, joins the Advertiser staff tomorrow and writes a story that is certain to be "must reading" in 10,000 New England homes.

TALES OF THE CALIFORNIA GOLD TRAIL, by Judge J. W. Pitts, continue in the American Weekly tomorrow.

Judge Pitts tells of ghosts that haunted the Forty-Niners and relates the story of the exotic red stains that could not be erased from the walls of the jail where enraged pioneers tore a Chinese to pieces.

Men who have said women couldn't invent things will enjoy the page which proves many wives are veritable Edisons. For instance, one woman who didn't like to see her husband's fingers in his coffee cup, invented a doughnut dunker. Another produced an "air-conditioned pie-plate."

"You have 17 things to work for you," says Dr. Lillian Gilbreth in her American Weekly article. It is her contention that, if people would study the units of motion and learn to regulate them, they would become expert engineers of the own muscles and senses and would in this way avoid wasted effort and time.

Other interesting features in this magazine have such interest-commanding titles as:

"But They Did Put Humpty-Dumpty Together Again," "A Rich Old Man's Sinless Girl Parties," "Trailer Cooking in 'A Home on Wheels,'" "Swapped Her Dead Husband for His Twin," "Science Gets a New Blast on Stammering," "Uncle Sam Makes a List of His Funniest Spots," and "England's Kerie Museum of Misfortune Sold at Last."

MAY NOT CALL WIFE OF BRIDGES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22 (INS)—For varying reasons, neither the defense nor the government is anxious to summon Mrs. Agnes Bridges, wife of west coast CIO Director Harry Bridges, to her husband's deportation hearing to affirm or deny a sensational statement attributed to her by a government witness, it was learned today.

According to Eugene George "Dutch" Dietrich, the latest government witness, Mrs. Bridges once threatened to expose her husband to the world as a Communist.

ABSENT FROM HEARING

Since the opening of the deportation case at Angel Island two weeks ago, Mrs. Bridges has failed to put in a single appearance, although their 14-year-old daughter, Jacqueline Betty, has been an occasional visitor, sitting at her father's side.

Mrs. Bridges' absence has caused all kinds of rumors. When Bridges himself was asked to clarify the many conflicting reports, he smiled.

"I've two homes—one my regular home, where my daughter is, and the other in a downtown hotel, where I spend most of my time."

"What's your official marital status?" he was asked.

"I'm still married," he remarked.

WIFE WAS IRED

In delivering the latest blow at Bridges, witness Dietrich, an international organizer for the AFL International Longshoremen's Union, related he had "phoned Bridges in either 1935 or 1936 and Mrs. Bridges answered."

Mrs. Bridges, irked over her husband's continued absence from home, said she was peeved, that she didn't care if she ever saw him again and threatened to "flush to the world" Bridges' membership in the Communist party, the witness said.

deputy superintendents, James R. Cleave and Benjamin A. Wall, had been ordered to report only to Commissioner Timilty.

"If this report or any part of it is eventually made public, it will be by order of the commissioner," Anderson asserted.

Asked directly if it were not true the board would go to State Prison today to interview convicts there, Anderson said:

"We will go wherever the investigation carries us."

WIFE INFORMS POLICE

Petzold is held in jail for grand jury appearance on a charge of possessing a burglar's tool, a key. His estranged wife is quoted by police as saying he told her the key would fit a Washington street store which he intended to enter.

The former patrolman was arraigned on the charge but entered emphatic denials. He was ordered held in $1000, however, and sent to jail when unable to raise bail.

In his reported "confession," Petzold allegedly listed various burglaries, specifying in each instance whether they had been undertaken with or without the "okay" of one of the patrolmen named.

$2100 STOLEN

Among the successful burglaries in which Petzold allegedly admitted participation was one in which $2100 was taken from a safe at the Back Bay store of the S. S. Pierce Co., where Petzold was employed as night watchman at the time.

Included among a half-dozen other crimes in which the former officer allegedly took part was an implicated yesterday were several burglaries in the Roxbury district and an unsuccessful safe break in East Boston.

Petzold, married and the father of two children, resigned from the police force under fire in 1936 after being accused of taking a "leave" to Virginia with a pretty, young married nurse.

Stock Rise Refutes F. D. Cry, Says Fish

Special to the Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, July 22—President Roosevelt's statement at Hyde Park that failure of the Senate to act on neutrality legislation would hurt business was instantly challenged today at the Capitol.

"The statement by the President that congressional postponement of action on arms embargo repeal would have a bad effect on American business, and his insinuation that it is killing the almost little business boom you ever saw," said Representative Hamilton Fish, ranking Republican of the House foreign affairs committee, "is the most insidious and vicious propaganda that has come out of the White House since Mr. Roosevelt took office."

"The arms embargo was retained by the House some 10 days ago. I have noticed that in that time stock prices have gone up substantially, obviously reflecting confidence that Congress does not intend this country shall become involved in any world war."

"For the past year there has been a war scare, largely manufactured at the White House. Fear in business circles has been allayed by the knowledge that Congress is opposed to arms traffic, and the danger of involvement in war. "It is almost incredible that President Roosevelt should indulge in this kind of outrageous and untruthful propaganda, to cover up the defeat of his effort to obtain more power to intervene in a foreign war."

"The sagacious action of the House and the Senate in refusing any action whatever at this session will stimulate and improve business, and not hurt it. "The reason President Roosevelt isn't taking the issue to the country is that he is afraid to do so, and has been advised that the American people, and particularly the people of the West, Middle West, and South, are against his policy."

F.D. GETS HATCH BILL
BUT WILL HE SIGN IT?

WASHINGTON, July 22 (INS)—The Hatch bill, a stern measure designed to take politics out of relief and sharply limit federal employees' political activity—went to the White House today with presidential approval conjectural.

Approved by the Senate after the House had "put the teeth back" in the bill, even the measure's sponsor—Senator Hatch (R.) New Mexico—expressed doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would sign it into law.

BANS JOY PROMISES

In its final form, the bill contains these provisions:

- 1—Prohibits intimidation or coercion of anyone—including relief workers—for the purpose of influencing votes.
- 2—Prohibits solicitation of campaign funds from persons on relief or persons administering relief funds.
- 3—Prohibits promising "any employment or benefit" by virtue of funds appropriated by Congress.
- 4—Prohibits action to "deprive or threaten to deprive" any person from employment made possible by funds appropriated by Congress.
- 5—Includes United States district attorneys, collectors of customs and internal revenue and thousands of others occupying clerical or subordinate positions in the government.

EXEMPTS PRESIDENT

- 6—Exempts federal officials in so-called "policy-making" positions, such as the President, vice-president, members of the cabinet, etc.
- 7—Prohibits executive employees who comes under the bill from serving as delegates to political ## conventions.

8—Carries penalties of $1000 fine or one year imprisonment, or both, for violations.

The measure was the outgrowth of the senate's investigation of charges of political use of relief funds during primary elections last fall.

Sullivans
Take Honors
At Nuptials

Twice a great day for the Sullivans today.

For Marguerite Joan Sullivan of Oriskany street, West Roxbury, and Charles Victor Sullivan of Elm street, Charlestown, said their "I do's" in St. Theresa's chapel, West Roxbury.

The bride was given in marriage by Daniel L. Sullivan, her father, and attended by Miss Virginia Sullivan, her sister.

Assistant Attorney-General Arthur V. Sullivan of Charlestown was his brother's best man, and listed among the ushers were Daniel L. Sullivan, Jr., of West Roxbury and Francis E. Sullivan of Charlestown.

And just to make it more interesting, out in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, Paul Sullivan, nephew of School Committee member Frederick Sullivan, exchanged nuptial vows with Catherine Buckley of Dorchester.

LABOR GROUP WILL FIGHT SALES TAX

Charging the two per cent sales tax measure is being held up in the State Senate with a view to rushing it through a weary legislature anxious to prorogue, the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor today threw the weight of its opposition against the measure.

At the same time, informed sources on Beacon Hill saw brighter chances for passage of the bill now than two months ago, when it was decisively rejected by the House.

POLITICAL STRATEGY SEEN

They pointed out that much of Governor Saltonstall's tax program, designed to raise $50,000,000 this year and next to wipe out the annual state levy on cities and towns had been rejected in the meantime. Political strategy, it was thought, would dictate an attempt to crowd the tax through during the present legislative session, rather than have it come up during the election year of 1940.

The Federation of Labor, terming the bill "vicious" and "another method of taxing those least able to pay," declared that "Senate strategists saw fit to postpone its execution in the upper branch, hoping that lawmakers might be sufficiently weary and anxious for prorogation to vote with its advocates."

"On Monday we expect the bill to be discussed very seriously at the Republican caucus," said Kenneth A. Taylor, legislative agent of the federation.

He expressed confidence, however, that Republican legislators "will not allow themselves to be led by the hand, but will exercise their own good judgment in deciding against such a tax."

Taylor also expressed belief that Governor Saltonstall would veto the tax if it passed the Legislature.

The 2 per cent levy would cover all retail goods except food, medicine, clothing and fuel, with an increase of 10 to 15 per cent on income surtaxes, the proceeds from the surtaxes to go toward meeting welfare costs.

BRINGING UP FATHER

KIDNAPED PASTOR'S DAD ILL

JERUSALEM, July 22 (AP).—The elderly father of kidnaped the Rev. Gerold R. Goldner of Mogadore, O., collapsed today because of worry and strain just as he was preparing to set out on a personal search for the kidnaped boy.

The father, Dr. Jacob Goldner of Cleveland, O., also a pastor, had declared he would seek out the lair of the abductors himself to negotiate for release of his son unless some hopeful development came this morning.

"I would make a special, father-is-appen to them to accept $200 (about $400) for the life of my boy," he had said in explaining his intention to seek out the band with the aid of two donkey boys and an interpreter.

Vets Score F. D., Laud Mr. Hearst

(Special to Boston Evening American.)

LOS ANGELES, July 22.—Third-term ambitions and European entanglements, with the specter of war looming over them, were held up by Joseph Scott and Frank P. Doherty before the Republicans at a luncheon here as the political issues of 1940.

"If a third term, why not a fourth term, and a fifth term?" demanded Doherty, close friend of Senator Hiram W. Johnson.

"We have to go back to Washington for the answer," Roosevelt wants to continue himself in the White House; don't kid yourself about that," said Scott. "No one else on the horizon, just Roosevelt, who has swiped the name of Democracy for his program of Socialism."

Doherty was a major commander of a machine gun battalion in the World War. Scott saw the war's horrors in the Red Cross service. Both of them denounced the President's insistence on the right to determine as President whether America shall plunge into another European war or not.

"I take off my hat to William Randolph Hearst," said Scott. "He is telling the world what war means, what it will mean for America if we permit ourselves to be led into another world war."

N. Y.-Boston Train Ban Threatened

Blackstone, Franklin and Readville.

According to Pece, if the proposal to abandon all passenger service was put into effect the only other means, outside of the Boston & Providence road, for the New Haven to bring trains into Boston, would be by way of the New England road.

WOULD COST MILLIONS

He said that in order to do this it would cost millions of dollars to put the roadbed in suitably adequate condition, and that even if this was done trains would have to travel four miles more to reach Boston from New York city, with increased cost of operation.

Because of the circuitous route and heavier grade it would take considerably longer for trains to make the trip, with a consequent loss of revenue from both freight and passenger business, on account of traveling through smaller communities than at present via the Boston & Providence.

Pece said:

"The full extent of this disaster cannot be fully appreciated without taking into consideration the connection the New Haven now has with the Boston & Maine Railroad by means of the Union Freight Railway which operates between South and North stations in Boston.

"This makes it possible for the New Haven road to ship goods to all points in Boston and north of Boston. The revenue, in this connection, for the New Haven road, runs into millions of dollars annually.

"Withdrawal of the franchise privileges conferred to the New England railroad might be effected with consequent losses to the New Haven.

"That such a course is now in the minds of Massachusetts officials is indicated by the fact that a meeting will be held in the State House Monday at which the governor, lieutenant-governor and the attorney general will be present.

"The attorney general's department has vigorously opposed petitions of the New Haven trustees to abandon Old Colony passenger service, as being against the public interest, and every assurance is given that the department will continue to oppose these petitions."

Guard Foils Raid On Navy Arsenal

OAKLAND, Cal., July 22 (INS).—Six men were balked today in an attempt to break into the arsenal at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base in Oakland.

The attempted raid was foiled by a sentry who summoned three other guards when he discovered a lock smashed on the building door.

As the four deployed around the building, the six men loomed out of the darkness and ran toward the highway where they climbed into an automobile and sped away.

A guard obtained the license of the machine, and police were tracing its ownership.

Body of Arlington Boy Found in Pond

The body of Paul Duffy, 7, of Alfred road, Arlington, was recovered today from a waterhole near Spy pond in Arlington.

Drowns Trying To Save Cambridge Boy

A Cambridge man gave his life in the turbulent swells off Marblehead Neck today to save the life of an eight-year-old boy and turn a weekly fishing excursion into tragedy.

When George Teuchare, son of Mrs. Mary Beaulieu of Austin street, Cambridge, tumbled into the sea, Richard Miretto, 56, also of Austin street, plunged after him, but disappeared in the surf, apparently victim of a heart attack.

His body was recovered by Howard Colby, summer resident, who was swimming nearby.

While his terrified mother watched the tragic drama, Tom Shen, caretaker of an estate on the Neck, pulled out the unconscious form of the little boy.

He was taken to the Corinthian Yacht Club and revived, then transferred to the Mary Alley Hospital in Marblehead.

SUBTLETIES ALSO DIVES BACK DOWN

LIVERPOOL, July 22 (INS)—An attempt to beach the sunken British submarine Thetis, with its cargo of 96 dead failed today when thick hawsers attached to the craft parted and the "iron coffin" plumped back onto the muddy sea bed.

The plan to lift the submersible, which went down June 1 during a practice dive in Liverpool bay with 100 men and officers, was said to be one of the most ingenious ever devised in submarine salvage.

(Background note: The Thetis sank a few days after the sinking of the American submarine Squalus May 23 off Portsmouth, N. H., with a loss of 26 lives. The first attempt to raise the Squalus met with similar disastrous failure. It plunging back to the ocean bottom when pontoon chains snapped.)

Eight stout rope cables were made fast to the Thetis from the rescue ship, Zelo. At high tide, the sea lift. The Zelo and with it the Thetis along below.

The plan was to tow the Thetis under water toward shore, 3 miles. The Zelo was to halt whenever the Thetis struck bottom, await low tide, and then draw the hawsers taut once more. Then proceed again at high tide, repeating the process until shallow water was reached.

The Zelo was about to steam toward shore when the cables broke this morning and the sea reclaimed its dead. Rescue crews immediately set to work again.

Camera on Your Trail, Better Keep Smiling

Whether you're at National League Field rooting the Bees to a victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today, or shopping in the downtown business district, it will pay to wear a smile today.

For the Candid Camera boys will be around in both districts for informal snapshots.

If your picture is taken by one of the Boston Daily Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Candid Camera Cavalcade today in either one of those sections, it may appear in any one of the three papers starting tomorrow.

So be smiling. It's easy to tell the Candid Camera Men by the insignia on his hat. After he takes your picture he will hand you a card telling you what happened.

Then all you have to do is watch for your picture in either the Record, American or Sunday Advertiser.

If your picture appears among those printed every day, you will receive a handsome sepia enlargement, seven by nine inches in size.

Woodruff Inspects C.M.T.C. at Devens

FORT DEVENS, July 22—Major General James A. Woodruff, commander of the First Corps Area, inspected the Citizens' Military Training camp troops today.

Harvard Savant Urges Ice for an Anesthetic

By G. E. LAL

International News Service Science Editor

NEW YORK, July 22—Chilling patients in ice-boxes as an important drugless method of producing anesthesia during surgical operations is suggested by Prof. George H. Parker of Harvard University in this week's issue of the official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Another newly developed method of causing general anesthesia, by passing an electrical current through the patient's body, was reported from the Department of Physiology of the University of Chicago, by Dr. M. L. Silver.

BRAIN PHONE, RUSY

Both in the use of electric current and of cold, the nerves that convey to the brain the painful sensations produced by the surgeon's knife become inactive or blocked. It is as though the telephone lines to the brain were "busy" or disconnected.

Dr. Parker, one of the world's foremost experimental zoologists, has made no experiments on human beings, but in his Harvard laboratories "general anesthesia" has been produced by chilling in all sorts of animals. For scientific studies, chilling has proved very useful because it avoids administration of ether, chloroform, chloroform and such drugs which leave their effects within the body.

QUICK RECOVERY

Prof. Parker reports: "Recovery is quick and satisfactory. The method has been applied to new-born rats."

"Whether it will have any operative significance for adult, warm-blooded vertebrates remains to be seen. Reports (from Dr. Temple Fay in Philadelphia) of a kind of cold hibernation, induced in human beings by slight lowering of bodily temperature, is suggestive of such a step."

Slum Clearing Bill Hits Snag

WASHINGTON, July 22 (INS)—The New Deal's housing program struck an unexpected snag today, when House leaders discovered that a majority of the powerful rules committee favors pigeonholing the Administration's $800,000,000 slum clearance bill.

Evaluated recently by President Roosevelt as one of the most important parts of his proposed lending program, the measure was passed early in the session by the Senate under the guidance of Senator Wagner (D.) New York's father of the housing program.

Weiss Resigns Louisiana Posts

NEW ORLEANS, July 22 (INS)—Resignation of the indicted Seymour Weiss, politically powerful hotel man, from all public offices today added fuel to the flames crackling about Louisiana's political graft scandal.

Weiss quit as president of the board of commissioners of the port of New Orleans, and as a member of the New Orleans police and fire boards.

Last Monday, Weiss, one of the triumvirate which took over Louisiana's political machine after the assassination of Huey Long, was indicted by a federal grand jury with four others in a charge of using the mails to defraud taxpayers, the state and its university.

DOLL GIRL SLAYING PROBED

Special to Boston Evening American

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22—Pennsylvania's crack department of justice agents delved into the slaying of Joan Stevens, 14, by Corporal Benjamin Franklin of the Pennsylvania motor police.

Impugned in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette's editorial was given by Attorney General Claude Traer, who ordered his agents to probe the slaying of the girl.

The night Franklin fired eight shots into the girl's body, the girl was sitting in the rear seat of his car, which was driven by him.

Franklin, 35, was instructed by the department to determine what officials conspired to obscure the investigation.

The attorney general's long-awaited report on the slaying of the girl, which was given by the department, was given by the department.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 22—You could have knocked me over with a feather when I heard Paramount was loaning Fred MacMurray to Darryl Zanuck for "Little Old New York." His home studio has been buying for Fred like mad, planning to give him a variety of parts from heroes to gangsters. But the chance to play in this delightful comedy drama is enough to make both Fred and Para change their minds.

As I've told you before, Alice Faye will play the part Marion Davies created on the silent screen and Richard Greene is the third top name in the cast.

"The Night of January 16," recently announced as Fred's next, will be postponed until "Little Old New York," which Henry King is directing, is finished.

The Hollywood gold offered Ralph Richardson has failed to lure him away from his native England. He is the fine character actor who played the never to be forgotten Denny in "The Citadel." He was also seen here as the husband in "South Riding," and does a highly creditable job in "Four Feathers," the new Alexander Korda picture.

Offers aplenty have come to him from every company in the business, but he has now signed a five-year contract with Korda and will only come to the U. S. A. should his boss need him in "The Constant Nymph," Merle Oberon's picture. A pity, too, for Richardson is really a swell actor.

The hottest rivalries in Hollywood are not between the box office kings and queens. No, it is the press agents who are turning on the big competition. Just the other morning I was awakened by two glamour girls at the front door, dressed to, excitedly for words, delivering by invitation to the "Four Feathers" preview.

Another bright idea in displaying past replicas of England's royal jewels as a stunt in connection with "Sherlock Holmes" at 20th Century. The real crown jewels are valued at $15,000,000 but the studio has copied them exactly for $1000. One of the best exploitation gags comes from Warners, where they are putting out a gossip sheet, couched in good old Elizabethan phraseology, in connection with "Elizabeth and Essex."

Not to be outdone with snappy ideas, Para is sending out two books that will sail on every body of water in the U. S. advertising "Ruler of the Sea."

"The Old Maid" will be tied up with the "Old Maid" convention in New York in September. Bob Burns tells me he's going back to the old home town, Van Buren, Arkansas, to help launch "Our Leading Citizen" and last but not least, Maurice Maeterlinck, himself has agreed to make the trailer for Shirley Temple's "The Blue Bird."

"We as business men," he said, "should encourage unions, have them understand all of our problems, take them into our confidence, and with them understanding what the objectives are, they will be the greatest help in preserving our form of social organization and government."

'DEAD END' KIDS REFORM IN THEIR NEW HIT

The incorrigible "Dead Enders" have reformed at long last for Warners' "Hell's Kitchen," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway Theaters on Thursday. The occasion will be the production's New England premiere. Appearing with the notorious Margaret Lindsay and Ronald Reagan, the picture takes up the "gutter kids" through last season's "The Perfect Stranger," who are a foil for the professional character actor, played by Stanley Fields, a grown-up "gutter kid" become a toughish racketeer who is regenerated by the young baddies who are not so bad after all.

Half-starved and brutally treated, the lads revolt against their intolerable lot. The sympathetic racketeer, realizing the future confronting them if they don't get a "break," sacrifices his fortune and personal freedom to give them that break.

UPTOWN'S FILMS

Sharing honors on the current Uptown bill are "Invitation to Happiness," with Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, and "Secret House," starring Anne Shirley and Barbara Read.

'Holiday' Tops Bill at Drive-In

"Holiday," Katharine Hepburn's starring picture, is being revived on the screen of the Drive-In Theater at Weymouth South Shore Route 3 A to Nantasket, starting tomorrow. New England's first open air theater is showing it through Tuesday.

Cary Grant plays opposite Miss Hepburn now appearing on Broadway in "The Sign of the Cross," and "The Sign of the Cross," starring Cary Grant and Katharine Hepburn.

FACING DANGER—Ronald Reagan, Margaret Lindsay and Bobby "Dead End" Jordan in a scene from "Hell's Kitchen," opening Thursday at the Paramount and Fenway.

Film Critic's Roundup

By PEGGY DOYLE

Greer Garson, who was brought to the attention of American film goers in the British-made "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," will make her Hollywood debut in Metro's "Remember," with Robert Taylor. It goes before the cameras on Monday, with Lew Ayres and Laura Hope Crews in supporting roles and Norman McLeod directing.

Judith Anderson, who appeared last season on Broadway in "Family Portrait," will play the role of Mrs. Danvers in the film edition of Daphne DuMaurier's "Rebecca," which Alfred Hitchcock will direct for Selznick International. Laurence Olivier already has been engaged for the role of Max de Winter.

William Powell has returned to work after a year's absence from the screen line to illness. His comeback picture is "And Now for Something Completely Different," at Metro, co-starring Mike Loy, recently returned from a European vacation. Hunt Stromberg produces and W. S. Van Dyke directs.

After five years in England, John Loder returns to Broadway in "The Perfect Stranger," the new production of Brent-Ira Miranda Marder at Paramount. . . . Paramount has purchased the rights to the novel "The Perfect Stranger" for a longer season. The next picture, "The Perfect Stranger," will be shown in the next picture. . . . Miss Rogers has a date with Keith Menzies in next Wednesday evening when "The Perfect Stranger" will be shown with David Niven will have preview showings. With "The Sign of the Cross" featuring George Sanders and Sally Gray, both will formally open there next Thursday morning.

Orson Welles, director of the Mercury Theater, is today bound, accompanied by John Houseman, the RKO Radio man.

THE PICTURE showing New York motorists avoiding their State's tax on tobacco products by driving to levy-less New Jersey and purchasing cigarettes from highway hawkers, interests Massachusetts.

It shows how thoughtless class legislation defeats its own purpose, drives out business, curtails employment and encourages defiance of law.

NEW YORKERS AVOID TAX: BUY IN NEW JERSEY
Will Saltontail Administration Also Penalize Business?

It provides a preview of what this State can expect if Senators and Representatives accept the Governor's cigarette tax recommendations.

It recalls Mr. Saltontail's pledge of October 8, 1933, when he declared:

"We shall fight to keep business and industry in Massachusetts and to attract new business and industry to our State. That is the way we will open the door of opportunity to the youth of our Commonwealth."

The picture and quotation cannot but inspire serious thinking. Thousands will surely ask:

"Will following the leadership of a State which has driven out business and industry carry out the Governor's promise to keep business and industry in Massachusetts?"

Will enactment of tax legislation that restricts enterprise open the door of opportunity to youth?"

DO WOMEN TAKE MEN'S JOBS

and thereby contribute to the male unemployment problem?

Contemporary efforts to bar married women from State and municipal payrolls prompt many discussions of that question.

Abundant information and mountains of figures are offered by those who take part in the arguments, but few persons face the important fact that WOMEN HAVE ALWAYS WORKED.

A hundred or more years ago, a woman was out of bed long before sunrise. She milked cows, gathered eggs, cooked prodigious meals over open hearths, lifted heavy iron pots, drew water from wells, canned vast quantities of fruits and vegetables, washed and ironed for as many as 15 people, dipped candles, churned butter, boiled soap, wove linen and wool, made clothing without benefit of sewing machines, and still found time to knit stockings and do patchwork.

Today, the average woman rises at 7, picks her milk from the porch, opens a bottle of fruit juice, removes the paper from a loaf of bakery bread, opens a box of doughnuts, makes a pot of coffee and has an adequate breakfast.

She feeds no chickens, collects no eggs, and doesn't have to make her own clothes or those for her family, because some 350,000 other women are working in garment mills throughout the country.

It thus becomes apparent that a large majority of the eleven million women who are gainfully employed in the United States are working not principally because they have taken jobs from men, but because the jobs their mothers and grandmothers used to do in the home have been transferred to factories by industrial progress.

EVERY ADDED TAX

on a corporation, or on ANY business enterprise, is another nail in the coffin of recovery.

The annual report of the Phelps Dodge Corporation, released recently, is a case in point.

The total of all direct taxes in the year 1933 assessed against that corporation and its subsidiary companies was approximately $4,041,000.

That is equivalent to EIGHTY CENTS PER SHARE of the outstanding capital stock of the corporation.

Moreover, the $4,041,000 of taxation represents THIRTY-TWO PER CENT of the corporation's consolidated net income, or $1.53 for EACH DAY WORKED by every employee on the payroll.

Those who wonder why wages are DOWN, unemployment is UP and business suffers through lack of venturesome enterprise need look no further.

Guardian Angel

HE may not be a beauty, but his heart's in the right place. . . . His eyes, the mirror of his soul, shine from his gnomish face . . . and as a guardian angel, all he lacks is downy wings . . . and yet, what self-respecting dog would tolerate such things? . . . He never picks a quarrel, but if trouble came his way . . . he'd certainly have something rather definite to say.

Beneath a rough exterior you'll very often find . . . a heart of gold, a noble soul, a disposition kind.

Human Side of News

by EDWIN C. HILL

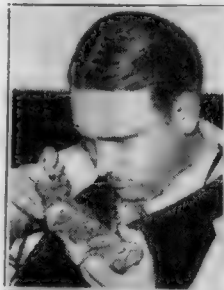

CONGRESSIONAL pulling and hauling over the value of the dollar and the price of silver is echoed by the thud of a pick in an abandoned mine, the wash of black dirt in a pan, the thump of a rheumatic stampmill, stirring again after its sleep of decades.

It isn't so much what has happened as what the old desert rats and the keen-eyed counts and promoters think is going to happen. "Think" isn't quite the word for it. It is "hunching" rather.

There is a feeling—hardly more rational than that—that this world economic log jam is going to break into a new flood of free competition, and that the prices of precious metals will be hiked to the skies; that gold, at any rate, will pick up its fallen sceptre and that those who have been loyal to King Mides will come into their own.

IN ARIZONA, the legend of lost "Mine With the Iron Door" is alive again, and around the tiny hamlet of Oracle there are whispers that this or that old-timer has located it.

INSPECTING NEW GOLD
Biggest Nugget Yet Found

There seems to be ground for the belief that the Spaniards did abandon a fabulously rich mine in this region more than 300 years ago. The story is that about $100,000,000 worth of gold-bearing quartz is piled behind the great iron door which closes the main shaft, a door long since hidden under sand and detritus.

Down in the Panamints, in Nevada and California, in and around the rim of Death Valley, in the Mexican Sierra, in the Wichita Mountains of Oklahoma, all along the Rockies, far in Canada, old tales not only of lost mines but hidden treasure are whispered again, and cryptic old maps and letters are being studied.

THERE is usually a desert Indian sketched somewhere in the romantic script of a lost gold mine. The grandfather of old Hassayampa Jim saved an Indian's child from a timber wolf, and the Indian led him to "Ja Mina Perdida," as the Mexicans called it, and there, wide open, was a vein of ore assaying $200 to the ton.

As the old man was riding home, his cayuse stepped in a gopher hole and broke its leg. The rider was lost in the desert without water, and, dying, scratched on a jut of Malpais rock a map showing the location of the mine.

Hassayampa found the rock and got the location, but he was a slave to liquor and didn't do anything about it.

However, he made a map of his own and—the big excitement is just where that map is now. The Southwest is alive with yarns like that.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

—1— MY DAY.

HYDE PARK, July 22—Quite unexpectedly, I spent all day Thursday in New York City and I am very grateful to a kind Providence which has kept the atmosphere remarkably cool for this time of the year. I did two chores while there.

First, I spent an hour with the dentist and now have only one more appointment before me, so next week should see me free until autumn and then I went to the safe deposit box to find something which I had put away for someone else.

On the way home to my apartment, I must have had a taxi driver who has seen me driving my own car about New York City. When I stepped out he said: "Does it make you nervous to have someone else drive you?" I answered: "No," and pondered over the fact that I am always quite convinced that other people can do such things as driving cars much better than I can, until they prove to me that they can't.

ONE of my children came to breakfast and we talked for some time. After a talk through the noisy busy city I went back to the country and peace and quiet.

A message from the President says that he will leave this evening and I am sure that the country will be relieved as restful as his absence from home.

When I look at the newspapers which are full of news about the happenings at some moment between men who have been in contact in Washington, I realize, of course, that frequently the reports are made up of what writers have had to glean from things which people have said or left unsaid.

FIRST LADY SEES FARM'S PRIZE CALF
"I went Back to the Country and Peace and Quiet"

Most of these men are older and have had long experience in carrying burdens, but, perhaps, from the physical standpoints find some of the discomforts of life, such as heat and noise and constantly conflicting people, rather harder to bear than they did at 25.

Each of them is carrying on his own particular fight with himself day in and day out, striving to be honest with himself, deciding whether things which are in the main minor annoyances are affecting his true judgment in big questions, or whether he is using his experience and knowledge in the way that he means to use them.

To be honest with yourself is the hardest thing in the world, and yet, on that, and that alone, perhaps, hangs the fate of the world. How much responsibility do we take ourselves in the matter of making decisions today which affect not only our own country but many countries?

Sometimes I think if some great writer could write the true story of what must go on in the heart and mind of any one of the men carrying such grave responsibility that we will do a world of good in raising the standard of citizenship for us, the average people who so complacently leave all burdens on the shoulders of our representatives.

CONGRESS TO QUIT,
SAYS McNARY
By Leonard Lyons

Senator McNary

NEW YORK, July 22—Calling All Stars—GEORGIE PRICE: What are you doing in Florida at this time of the year? ... F. D. R.: McNary, the Republican leader, expects Congress to adjourn by July 28. ... DIXIE DAVIS: So you were surprised last week when the front pages reported that U. S. Int. Rev. men were interested in your income-tax status? It was published in this column on August 25, last year. ... GEORGE VI: The stewardesses aboard the ship which brought Crown Prince Olaf to this country and back confide that, despite all the attention ready to be paid to this ruler-to-be—only once during the trip did he ring for help. He called the stewardess to say: "I'm sorry, miss but I upset the vase."

GERTRUDE NIESEN: London producers want you to return to London to star in "See Him to Get Married." Tatum Carmichael will have the main lead. ... RAYMOND MASSEY: Bob Sherwood, who wrote your play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" has a new interest—playing with toy airplanes. ... HENRY FONDA: John Steinbeck, author of "Grapes of Wrath," will go to Hollywood next week to inspect the screen play in which you're to have the leading role.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MURPHY: Dick Loebe, who just resigned from his job as Governor of Louisiana, came to Broadway once—three years ago. ... At the Versailles restaurant, he told a group of us: "I run my household as if it were a political community. Junior, GERTRUDE NIESEN who is six, in Mayor; Cook is Commissioner of Supplies. And as for me, I'm Finance Director."

GINGER ROGERS: Harold Ross will occupy your Hollywood home during their vacation next week. Your mother called Ross and suggested: "We'll have a car meet you at the train. Which car would you prefer—the limousine or the station wagon?" ... "Listen," Ross replied, jokingly, "I knew you and Ginger when you didn't have a kiddie car between you."

JACK BARAGWANATH: Your wife, Neysa McMein, made a recording for a new radio program yesterday with Moss Hart, George S. Kaufman and Ben Hecht. It's a development of the "Truth Game" played at their homes and will feature the spontaneous wit of those who will appear on the program.

MRS. GREGORY MANGIN: Are you going to send postcards to your friends, from Nevada? ... LORETTA YOUNG: William P. Buckner, Jr., your fiancé, who was convicted recently, has been going to Siegmund Klein's, taking weight-lifting lessons.

BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

ED WYNER OF THE RITZ is in a position to make Artie Shaw, the band-leader, say "uncle" if he wishes. Shaw is contracted to open at the Ritz Roof August 10. ... As Artie is busy right now making a picture in Hollywood, with a $40,000 salary fee at stake, and as his contract calls for his being available for "retakes" until August 15, it is understandable why frantic oscillation of the sound waves (via telephone) have been created. ... Because there are always "retakes" ... Although it will call for a bit of re-arranging of the Ritz orchestra schedule, it is an odds-on wager that Mr. Wyner, a considerate fellow, will push ahead the show opening so that a cocktail of the contract will make the opening date August 18, instead of 30.

THROUGHOUT THE ENGAGEMENT of Hal Kemp and his boys, a poll has been taken of customers at the Wyner sky-roost to determine which of the "name" bands is the most popular with Ritz patrons. ... These patrons—make a fairly representative cross-section of their opinion in Boston. ... Also, their taste in bands can be accepted as excellent. ... You really don't have to be in the Social Register to visit the Roof, and the fashionable audience which assembles there more or less nightly in a cosmopolitan, multi-racial and altogether heterogeneous one.

HOWEVER, for a keen electorate on the question of whose band is tops, I think we may take the Ritz voters as intelligent. ... For one thing, the jitterbug and jelly-bean class is in an insignificant minority—(what an advertising point!). ... You see fewer contortionists playing leap-frog under the delusion that they are dancing, at the Ritz than at any of the local swing-your-partner emporia. ... The result of the poll? ... It's an interesting race.

GUY LOMBARDO IS LEADING and Artie Shaw is second. ... Kay Kyser, Hal Kemp and Tommy Dorsey are in a photo finish for third. ... (A year ago Benny Goodman would have breezed by length). ... Alvin Duke Ellington, whose band opens Monday, has not been important in the poll. There seems to be keen interest in the Duke's appearance. ... The regular Ritzers have not, in great numbers, had an opportunity to weave to the rhythm of the Tiffany of the colored orchestras. ... To get back for a minute to the poll, it should serve to settle a dispute of long-standing between Jack Marshall and Ruby Newman, two of Boston's most prominent musical outfits. ... There is deep and dark rivalry between these two. ... Both ladies argue about it, neither ever mentioning the other. ... How are they making out? ... They are well up in the standing, which probably goes to prove that Our Town has a deal of local pride. ... But your scout can't get the figures. ... Maybe later.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: William McKenna, the handsome and wealthy plumbing contractor, has slipped a diamond on the engagement finger of Miss Theima Hamilton, a lovely item. ... Slipped perhaps isn't the word. ... The diamond was large enough to be measured by slide-rule, instead of karat. ... Let us now have a toast to the East Wind. ... What is so perfect as three Boston days in July with an East Wind? The answer is SIX.

Hollywood Today

JEFFREY LYNN FIRST
IN POE FILM CAST
By Louella O. Parsons

Jeffrey Lynn

HOLLYWOOD, July 22 Personal—JEFFREY LYNN: He waits his search for an actor to play Edgar Allan Poe in the Warner biography of the great American poet. Weak, arrogant and self-indulgent, Poe was a tragedy, but his works live on as timeless literary classics. His wife, who died at 28, was the one inspiring influence in his career and one of his greatest poems, including "The Raven," was dedicated to her.

Very few of Poe's grim poems or stories have been made on the screen. I remember one "The Tell-Tale Heart," made years ago by D. W. Griffith. A man, with Henry Hathaway, who had a bad reputation on the set, was reported to have been killed by a falling lamp. ... The film was a disaster. ... The film was a disaster. ... The film was a disaster.

GRETA GARBO

MRS. JACK WALKER and Cedric Belfrage, who are visiting social Hollywood to a supper dance on July 23 in honor of Jack's and Dolores Del Rio's natal day. They, Hampton and Jules Brundage, who remain in Hollywood for the racing season, are holding a dinner at the Tel Air Country Club. ... The dinner will be a social affair, with a Westwood shop and stocked with sweaters, belts and socks. ... all very inexpensive.

JOAN BENNETT and John McMillin, who are in concessions at Ocean Park and playing horse races, are keeping J. Carroll Nash keeping his horses happy by chopping down trees. ... Nice exercise if you can't do it. ... Rosa Ponselle, who is in the city, is in the city. ... Young M. ... is in the city.

LISTEN, WORLD! How Far Should Tolerance Go? By Elsie Robinson

THIS BUSINESS of Tolerance—I WONDER IF IT ISN'T ABOUT TIME WE DID A SURVEY JOB ON IT...SET UP SOME GOOD, STOUT BOUNDARY LINES?

That question, coming from me, may surprise you. It surprises me even more, coming from myself. I admit I've done my share of sniping and snapping, but I have never been a Professional Sour Puss.

I was born, it is true, in the Victorian Era, when practically everybody had his eye glued to everybody else's keyhole. But a Wild West environment was no place for snooty saints. In a land where your next-door neighbor or your own grampa might turn out to be a horse thief, it ill behooved any of us to toss up our noses at the rest of us.

Tolerance under such conditions was not only commendable but imperative if you wanted to keep your health.

THERE WERE LIMITS, of course, and we all knew and respected them. Folks who lived "south of the railroad tracks" were—"folks who lived south of the railroad tracks." They knew their place and you knew yours and that was that.

With Prohibition, however, even this limited barrier vanished. We'd Raised the World for Democracy and the D. T.'s. So—letting go, Gallagher this was the life! So everybody told off-color stories. And everybody listened and laughed. And many got plastered on everybody else's best ruffled Irish bedspread. And burnt holes in Aunt Abbie's cherished mahogany. And got married to somebody whose name he couldn't remember when he woke up next week, after the hang-over. 'N' East was East 'n' West was West—and they all went to the dogs together in a handbasket an' waddid (hic) w-w-we (hic) ca-a-a-re? Nothin'!

Was it not a nice, noble experiment? YES—IT WAS NOT!

But presently that was over too. Or we thought it was. But lately I've been having very dark and insistent doubts. I'm still strong for Tolerance. I still believe that—humans being what humans are—you mustn't be too choosy. Especially in a Democracy. I still believe that the Other Fellow's Religion, Race, or Color is just as good as mine. ... I am a ... I am a ... I am a ...

AND I DO BELIEVE, FOLKS THAT IT IS TIME WE GOT TOGETHER AGAIN AND AGREED ON SOME SORT OF A GENERAL CODE OF DECENCY AND GOOD MANNER.

WE AMERICANS were a very simple people. We didn't know much about Diplomacy ... or International Finance ... or Court Etiquette. And we may have been a little wee bit priggish BUT WE DID KNOW HOW TO BE CLEAN AND KIND.

WE DID KNOW HOW TO BE HOME-BODILY, FATHER THAN OUR HOODLUMS. ... WE DID KNOW HOW TO HONOR OUR FLAG, PROTECT OUR FAMILIES, AND BEHAVE OURSELVES IN PUBLIC PLACES.

And now? Well, now we've become so smart and sophisticated and tolerant and worldly-wise that we giggle at any blasphemy ... ha-ha at any obscenity ... condemn any cruelty ... and slap any traitor on the back! Any then goes now. Another's funny. Particulars: Religion ... Patriotism ... Chastity ... Honor ... Friendliness ... and Family Life.

So that's Tolerance? Well, you take it! It takes the Wild, Old West ... where you weren't too choosy. And you knew who was a right and who wasn't ... and kicked your doors open.

USHERING at a wedding is not all dignity . . . Dan Cheever and Mif Scaife, two of the prominent Hasty Pudding who ushered at Sam Shaw's wedding to Sue Storey yesterday in the First Parish Church, Brookline, indulged in a competition to see which one could show the most pretty girls to their jenny . . .

The church was packed with many of Sue's attractive friends, but though they used their most ingratiating smiles and appealing bows, Mif and Dan ended up in a tie . . . The score would be different, however, if the two were competing in a freckle contest like the sandlot kids, for everyone was kidding Mif about the new collection he has acquired . . .

Guests at Bridal

SUE AND SAM are so popular that activities at summer resorts were temporarily forgotten and friends came in from distant places to attend the wedding . . . All the way from Northeast Harbor came Beachie Talbot, who hustled into the church a few moments after the ceremony had begun . . .

Mrs. Renouf Russell shared a few with her sister, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, and intently watched all the details of the ceremony, for in a couple of weeks her daughter, Susan, will be leading lady in a fashionable wedding, when she becomes the bride of polo-playing Skiddy Von Stade, Jr., at Dublin, N. H. . . . The Governor's wife wore a navy and white chiffon redingote costume, and Mrs. Russell's summery black and white print was topped by a white flower turban . . . Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, drove up from Manchester for the ceremony . . . her modish dark green chiffon dress made with a tucked bodice and set off by a necklace of large pink shell flowers . . . A touch of pink brightened her dark green straw sailor . . .

The ushers made a dash to offer an arm to Mrs. Edward Crew, Jr., (Molly Harlow) who looked very pretty and summery in a lime green print, with a leghorn bonnet on her blonde curls . . . Olivia Ames wore a striking outfit of flax blue with accessories, including hat, slippers, purse and bolero, of a soft raspberry shade . . .

One of the most distinctive costumes was worn by the bridegroom's eldest sister, Rosemary, who has been the bride of George Baty Blake, Jr., for less than a month . . . The skirt of her organdie dress was fashioned of red, white and black plaid, the full-sleeved bodice was black, and her tiny black taffeta sailor was tied on with a froth of red and white veiling . . . At the conclusion of the ceremony, she posed on the lawn for a picture with her bridegroom, who was resplendent in his usher's cutaway . . .

Bride Wears Ivory Satin and Lace

MRS. THOMAS LANMAN, head of the Morning Musicales ushers, had Sue for her second in command last winter . . . and knowing Sue's weakness for being late predicted that she would be late for her own wedding . . . But Sue was at the church on time, looking lovelier than ever in her ivory satin and lace, and carrying a spray of lilies of the valley and white tiger lilies . . . Very appropriate for a midsummer wedding were the crisp white organdie frocks worn by the eleven bridesmaids . . . and their bouquets and beadedresses were feathery arrangements of larkspur, babies breath and pink tiger lilies . . .

Cornelia Baker and her cousin, Natalie Simpkins; Katharine Putnam, Nancy Burrage, Harriet Bundy and Faith Kidder, all of whom ushered at the Musicales under Sue's direction last winter, were among the throng of guests . . . together with Mrs. John G. Coolidge, Jr.; Natalie Coolidge, who was in mustard yellow from tip to toe; Mrs. Charles Storey, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, with orchids on her black and white embroidered jacket; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Whiteside, who came up from Wareham for their nephew's wedding; Mrs. Edward Bigelow, with a cloud of chateaufort veiling on her white sailor and a chateaufort pleated dress; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lothrop Motley, Elizabeth Motley, Deborah Sprague, Mrs. Gorham Brooks and Dorothy Storer . . .

ANY LIST of sub debutante activities on the North Shore is sure to include the name of Patricia Stride, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. F. W. A. Stride, of Hamilton, who was photographed in costume of a recent outdoor fete.

Mrs. Edmund P. Saltonstall of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. Philip Y. DeNormandie of Boston are vacationing at The Pines in Digby, N. S.

Bridal Abroad

A wedding in England this summer is being planned by Harriet Hopkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hopkinson of Manchester, whose engagement to Alfred Rive, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Rive of Vancouver, B. C., has just been announced.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College and is now with the United States Department of Labor in Geneva.

Mr. Rive, who served in the World War, graduated from Oriel College in Cambridge, England. He is second Secretary of Legation, Department of External Affairs with the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations in Geneva.

Cohasset Home Scene Of Lecture

South Shore residents have been enjoying the usual summer festivities, will delay the more serious side of a Thursday morning when they will read a lecture at the home of Mrs. George Willard Smith of Cohasset.

The lecture will be the first in a series under the auspices of the Boston Y. W. C. A. to raise funds for the "Y's" fund at Mount Pleasant Vineyard. Dr. Misses Van Wagon will speak on "Youth and Democracy."

Mrs. Thomas Page Smith is chairman of the committee for the second lecture, on August 3, when Mrs. William B. Rice will be hostess at her home in Hingham, for the talk on the "Berkshire Festival" by Mrs. Carl Drew.

Assisting Mrs. Smith are Arthur Gordon P. Marshall, Mrs. H. Philip Emerson, Mrs. Sydney M. Harrison, Mrs. W. R. Stark, Mrs. E. Mendenhall, Mrs. A. H. Pope and Mrs. Oliver H. Pope.

The committee for the third lecture on August 10 at Mrs. Arthur V. Rogers' barn in Cohasset, includes Mrs. Redington M. De Cornis, Mrs. Arthur Haves, Mrs. Benton Grove, Mrs. Charles W. Rogers, Mrs. E. H. Rogers, Mrs. James Craig, Mrs. S. Theodore Pittenbender, Mrs. Richard Fuller and Miss Elizabeth Bearman.

Bostonians Hosts At York Harbor Luncheons

Adding to the festivities of the mid-July season at York Harbor, Me., were several luncheons given today at the Reading Room, popular rendezvous of the smart summer colonists.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harding entertained there in honor of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Hollingsworth were other Bostonians entertaining guests, and Mr. and Mrs. John Adie were hosts to their week-end visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ames of Cambridge.

Bostonians attending the informal dance at the Reading Room this evening will include Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Rollins, Mary Holden, Susan Hammond, Reginald Gray, the Hollingsworths and Mr. and Mrs. Adie.

NAHANT GARDEN CLUB PLANS FLOWER SHOW

Adding an appropriate touch to the summer days to the annual flower show at the Nahant Garden Club on August 18 will be the old fashioned costumes worn by the ladies in charge of the affair, which will be the Flower Fashions of Long Ago.

Mrs. Burton Lewis Gale, president, is acting as chairman of the committee, and as a forerunner to the show she will give a garden party at her estate, Morningside, next Tuesday afternoon.

EILEEN MARIE ADAMS DORCHESTER BRIDE

At an afternoon ceremony at St. Mark's Church in Dorchester, Eileen Marie Adams of Dorchester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, became the bride of Paul P. Condon of Dorchester.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Dalton and the bride was attended by her sister, Dorothea, as maid of honor. Mrs. Condon's best man was David Condon of Delaware, his brother. The couple will make their home in Quincy.

VISITING NEW YORK

Mrs. J. Hurd Hutchins and Miss Mabel Edmunds, of Boston, have joined Mr. and Mrs. Hurd Hutchins of Washington, Connecticut, at the "Ambassador Hotel" in New York.

PRESENTING Mrs. James W. O'Brien, the former Evelyn L. O'Brien of Thomas Hall, whose wedding was a recent event. The young couple are now making their home in Swamscott upon their return.

A. F. O'Keeffe To Take Bride

An engagement announcement of interest is that of Patricia O'Keeffe and Arthur Fleming, the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. James O'Keeffe, just made known by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. James O'Keeffe, of Brookhaven, Long Island.

Mr. O'Keeffe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Keeffe of Milton, and attended Phillips Exeter Academy and the Johns Hopkins University.

Miss O'Keeffe is now at the Academy of St. Elizabeth, Convent Station, N. J., the Holywell School for Girls at Cohasset, Long Island, and a summer college in Baltimore. She made her debut at a tea at her mother's home in Brookhaven four seasons ago.

Mrs. Coolidge Aids Benefit

Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge of Manchester, who recently entertained Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha of Norway at her palatial seaside home, will be hostess on July 27 and 28, for an exhibition and sale of needlework and other handiwork, organized by the needlework committee of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

Williams Life Saver For Sox

ST. LOUIS, July 22—Staging an uphill battle, the Boston Red Sox finally whipped the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 5, in the 11th inning after tying the score in the ninth.

The victory cut the lead of the New York Yankees, who lost to the Chicago White Sox, to nine games over the Red Sox in the American League pennant race.

A triple by Jimmy Foxx and a double by Ted Williams in the ninth inning sent the contest into extra frames. Williams whacked a single past first base in the 11th to bring in Dower, who had singled, with Myrl Hoag homered for the Browns and Jim Tabor wallopped a four bagger for Boston. The Red Sox made 16 hits to the Browns 11.

THE WORRIED

The Bees outdid the Cubs in their final score but to no avail. One bad pitch by Jim Turner to Carl Reynolds was enough to give the visitors the edge 3 to 1. Up to the time Reynolds golfed that one pitch into the left field stands with two on, Turner had allowed

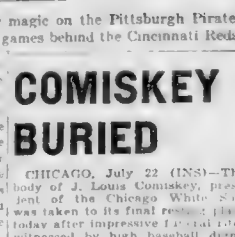

The Bears just fumbled every time Babe Fortune winked. In the fourth inning Hassett singled and West doubled. That was the end of that spree when Cuccinello, Majeski and West were easy outs.

SIGNALS GO WRONG

In the sixth something went wrong with the signals. Hassett, West and Cuccinello had singled, yet nobody scored. Hassett who was on s and expected Tony to sacrifice and when he let the pitch go by, Hassett was nipped off second by Hartnett. West tested out Gabby's arm and found it true for he was an easy out trying to steal second.

Cuccinello singled after all this rumpus which would have accounted for two runs had all gone well but there were no base runners to profit by the blow. Majeski ended the agony by flying out to center.

At the first I thought I was in the wrong, but the fact of their going to the West and what they had to do there was so different from the life I had known that I was glad to go. I had heard

THE CLOCKERS were spotted around the track at Rockingham Park this morning. Smoke was curling from the chimneys of the Sam Simons' horsemen's kitchen. Vans were rolling into the grounds from all parts of the East. Racing Secretary John Turner and General Manager Lou Smith watched the activity from in front of the Administration Building.

The track appeared lightning fast as the clockers checked the times of the thoroughbreds.

Back in the barns the grooms cared for their horses, or busy themselves putting their new locations in order.

In the distance the foothills of the White Mountains furnished a background of majestic beauty.

The rows of mutual machines and the tote board were as quiet as tombstones. Later in the day they would be tested again by Mort Mahony's crew for on Monday Old Rock will open. For 18 days the thoroughbreds will try for new records and purses, the handicappers will come up with some selections that win and more that lose, the bettors will cash some tickets and tear up others.

The warm New Hampshire sun will heat down upon the most famous racing colors in the world as they flash around the picturesque little oval situated a few miles outside of Salem, N. H.

The sturdy people of New Hampshire will take time out from their many varied duties as they mingle with visitors from Massachusetts and from other parts of New England around the paddocks, in clubhouse and grandstand, and along the rail as gallant thoroughbreds come thundering down the home stretch in stirring finishes.

Lou Smith, that quiet, constructive man of New England racing, will stand back somewhere on the grounds and watch the big show. He will be satisfied if there is good racing and a small profit.

Rockingham First New England Track

AS LOU WATCHES the thoroughbreds parade postward on Monday, he will probably have flashes of his battle for legalized racing in New Hampshire going through his mind. He will recall how he overcame local opposition by good racing, and had the sport set up under a State Commission form of control.

The first year of legalized racing in New Hampshire was a golden one for the owners of the track. People journeyed to New Hampshire with large sums of money, and frantically poured it into the mutual machines. The sellers of mutual tickets often found that the inexperienced racegoers did not even wait for their change as they rushed away with what they hoped would be winning tickets.

It often happened that the bettors even didn't bother to cash their tickets when they won. There were persons who believed they had to call the exact position where a horse finished, and they would tear up their tickets if they had a horse to place or show and he won.

The records of that first meeting at Rockingham Park showed that there were $36,000 of uncashed tickets.

The bettors who will journey to Rockingham on Monday, have mastered the art of the pari-mutuel machines. They now purchase their tickets carefully, and don't tear them up until the race has been declared official. They are also more conservative in their wagers. They have learned through bitter experiences that while one can beat a race he cannot beat the races. So they try to pick their spots instead of attempting to lose their money as quickly as possible.

Smith Has Favored Short Meetings

LOU SMITH HAS been one of the leaders in the fight for short race meetings, and as a result he looks forward to the opening of his three weeks of racing with considerable gratification. Lou has felt that racing must level off in time, and that the various tracks should co-operate in arranging racing dates that will not be too much of a drain on the public purse. Lou points to the success of racing in Maryland where they have always had short race meetings.

I understand Charles F. Adams of Suffolk Downs is in sympathy with Smith's plan, and that he will favor a reduction of racing days once the huge bonded debt of the East Boston track is paid off. The Suffolk Downs debt amounts to $600,000, but it is believed that the meeting that closes today will reduce this charge against the track to $600,000.

Rockingham Park has a new grandstand, and a new stand for the judges.

Tom McKoy, president of Rockingham Park, has the track on a sound financial basis, and a liberal share of future profits will be spent for improvements with an eye to retaining the original simple and almost country fair lines of the track and buildings.

A race was in progress when the hurricane hit Rockingham. A jockey was blown from his horse by the gale during the race through the home stretch. Babe Rubenstein, the announcer, flurried with death as he crawled from the announcer's booth along the swaying roof of the grandstand.

McKoy and Smith took last year's mishaps as a part of racing luck. They will forget these reverses when the bugle sounds for the opening of the first race on Monday afternoon.

Old Rock, like Saratoga and Churchill Downs, is an institution. It has stood up in face of hurricanes and legal storms, and always looks to the future with a feeling of confidence in the sport of kings.

As the racing closes at Suffolk Downs today, racegoers will be glancing at Monday's entries at Old Rock. A new track always gives the bettors renewed hope.

Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., was placed at the top of the women's seeded list with Dorothy Wolkman of Los Angeles, Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn. and Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco.

All-Pitt Staff For All-Stars

PITTSBURGH, July 22 (AP)—The Eastern All-Star football team, which will oppose the New York Giants Sept. 7 at New York in the fourth annual game for the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund, will have an "all-star" on the coaching staff.

Dr. Jack Sutherland, head coach, today named an All-Pittsburgh staff of assistants, including John White, Michelosen, who was quarterback of last year's All-Star team.

Michelosen will be backfield coach, and Alec Fox, captain of the 1938 Pitt team and assistant coach at Pitt last year, will be line coach.

"I'll call it after ride will be Dr. George Moore, trainer, and Frank Smith, manager. Scott managed the Panthers last season and Moore trained them. There also are ten of the 1938 Pitt players on the All-Star squad of 27.

Boston tennis adherents are sure to be present in large numbers at the Longwood Bowl's stadium court this afternoon, with their favorite in this week's competition, Katharine Winthrop, scheduled to show her wares in both the championship singles and doubles.

After a week of brilliant play, Miss Winthrop is titling Helen Bernhardt of New York for the single's laurels, and she and Miss Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston are meeting Elizabeth Blackman of Detroit and Marilyn McFae of Little Rock, Ark., in the double's final.

While the Jack Crawford versus Gene Mako, Australia versus the United States, singles' match is slated by the Bowl committee as today's highlight attraction, the Boston Evening American photo. HELEN BERNHARDT of New York, defending champion, who met Katharine Winthrop of Boston in women's final at Longwood this afternoon.

Boston fans will display more interest in their own representatives, Miss Winthrop and Miss Johnson.

MURPHY TWINS SHOW
The other top attraction on this afternoon's sparkling menu has the Australian doubles' combination of Quist and Crawford grappling the Murphy twins of Chicago, Chet and Bill, in a semi-final conflict.

The winners of this engagement are to face Frankie Parker and Gene Mako in Sunday afternoon's final.

It might also be said here that Quist will play the winner of the Mako-Parker match in the final.

The program at Longwood today shapes out as follows:

- 1—Kay Winthrop of Boston vs. Helen Bernhardt of New York in the women's single final. (Stadium court.)
- 2—Kay Winthrop and Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson, both of Boston, versus Elizabeth Blackman of Detroit and Marilyn McFae of Little Rock, Ark. (Stadium court.)
- 3—Jack Crawford of Australia versus Gene Mako of California in the men's semi-final. (Stadium court.)
- 4—Adrian Quist and Jack Crawford of Australia versus the Murphy twins, Chet and Bill, of Chicago, in the men's doubles' semi-final. (Stadium court.)

For tomorrow the final and championship matches in the men's singles and doubles are expected to be played.

TOURNAMENT TOPICS

It will be interesting if both gentlemen from the East—Parker, Quist and Crawford, meet in the men's singles championship. They might very well happen, too, for Crawford seems to carry top heavy guns for Gene Mako in today's semi-final.

This much can also be said, the Frankie Parker Gene Mako team should upset the Quist and Crawford combination in the doubles.

The American tennis scene has been pretty hot lately. This summer, however, just recently taken the big prize, the N.Y. championship, then pay the week at Rockingham.

The 1939 Rockingham Bowl Kay Winthrop's secretary today is only 17 years of age. She is from New York and a fine tennis competitor.

INJUN FACES TEST OF YEAR IN RACE AT ST. LEONARD'S

The most talented road race field ever assembled in New England's history is scheduled to toe the mark at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon in the 10-mile handicap run sponsored by St. Leonard's H. N. S. in Boston's North End.

Hawk Zamparelli, who is plugging the affair, will start from scratch with Tarzan Brown, Johnny Kelley, Leslie Pawsen, Lou Gregory and Joe Campbell.

It is the first time in N. E. history that six headliners will have started in such a race, and is worthy of the title which Hawk has stamped upon it: "The Race of Champions."

Both Brown and Pawsen have won the B. A. A. marathon twice, and Brown has taken the time prize in 12 successive road races at 10 or 12 miles this season.

Gregory has just returned from Lincoln, Neb., where he won the national 10,000 meter championship. Joe Campbell is New England 5000 meter and cross-country champion. Kelley won the B. A. A. marathon in 1937, and Zamparelli recently won the New England six-mile title at New York.

If that group can snip Brown's streak, then perhaps the winner will be found in the handicap list, which includes such notables as Paul Donato, Roger La Bonte, Johnny Semple or Paul Donahue.

ELLIE HAYDOCK

Plays outfield for Totem Pole

Totem Pole Gals Play Worcester

The Totem Pole girls' softball nine will play a return game with the Worcester Home Service Laundry nine tomorrow afternoon at Norumbega Park, starting at 4 o'clock.

In their first meeting, the Totem Pole girls won, 5 to 3. This was quite an achievement, inasmuch as the Worcester nine had defeated the Gardenias, while the Norumbega girls are new at the game.

Ann Sigman is scheduled to hurl for the Totems tomorrow. Mary Pratt having worked for the Olympics Thursday night against the Connecticut Starlets. Marion Leary of Brookline, who swims as well as she catches, will be behind the plate.

Shute, McSpaden At Poland Spring

POLAND SPRING, Me., July 22 (INS)—Headed by Denny Shute, former P. G. A. champ, Tony Masero, ex-open titlist and Jug McSpaden, New England pro and amateurs assembled today for the northeastern pro-amateur golf championship tournament, to be held tomorrow and Monday.

Bees Have Two Hitters In Circle

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Most of the activity among baseball's major league batting leaders took place this week in the American League, with a trio who were on the outside looking in last week now numbered among those present.

Bill Dickey of the New York Yankees, Myril Hoag of the St. Louis Browns and Eric McNair of the Chicago White Sox are the old familiar faces back in the junior loop's Big 10, while missing are Charlie Gehringer of Detroit, Roger Cramer of Boston and Buddy Lewis of Washington.

Of course Joe DiMaggio is still the loop's pacesetter, although his average slipped from a gaudy .432 to .406.

In the National League, Johnny Mize of the Cardinals with .337 moved to third from fifth and traded places with Buddy Hassett who slipped from .343 to .335 this week. Morris Anzovich's .375 still gives him top ranking.

Harry Danning's injury caused him to lose out and Ducky Medwick's .315 was good enough to give him Harry's place.

The ten leading hitters in each league:

Dusty Cooke Regains Lead

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—The one guy to whom all International League pitchers are "kneeing" seems to be Dusty Cooke of the Rochester Red Wings. Having regained the league batting leadership a week ago, he seems intent on keeping it.

Motor Car Club Honors De Palma

A reunion after 30 years will occur tonight in the lobby of the Copple-Piazza Hotel when Ralph De Palma again climbs into the cockpit seat of a 1910 model, 120-horsepower Fiat racing car which he formerly drove.

De Palma is to be the guest of the 80 members of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America. Professor Denn A. Fales of M. I. T. is president; Paul Cadwell of Warwick, R. I., is vice-president; Cameron Bradley of Southboro, treasurer, and Thomas McKean, Jr., Hingham, Pa., secretary.

ERNIE SCOTT, captain of Boston Aces, who will play football on roller skates at National League Field starting next Tuesday evening. A board track will be laid for the event. Scott, 22, is a Wakefield boy.

Phillies' Castoffs N. L. Standouts

NEW YORK, July 22 (INS)—There has been a strong revival lately of talk of shifting the Browns and Phillies to other towns operating minor league clubs on the grounds that neither St. Louis nor Philadelphia is capable of supporting two major league clubs.

This, of course, is much easier said than done for many reasons. It would be much easier for the American League to buy out the Browns and the National to purchase the Phils and then simply scrap both clubs and let each league operate on a seven-club basis.

After all, there is no law compelling each league to have eight teams. Among baseball people there is always strong sympathy for the owners of the Browns, who seem to be trying hard to build up a winner despite heavy obstacles.

No such sympathy exists for the Phils, however, because whenever they do develop a good ball player they immediately sell him.

There are enough ex-Phillies playing with other National League clubs today to put the Phils in the thick of the pennant scramble if they had all been retained.

Bartell of the Cubs and Camilli of the Dodgers certainly would be a big help to that Philly infield, and Fasseau of the Cubs and Walters of the Reds surely wouldn't hurt the Philly pitching staff. All are ex-Phillies.

Walters was sold for $45,000 and some baseball window dressing last winter, and yesterday he turned in his 15th victory as the Reds took the first game of a doubleheader from the Dodgers, 4-1.

Hugh Casey pitched the Dodgers to an even break, 4-3, on Todd's homer and a two-run wild throw to third by Johnny Vander Meer.

The Ladies Day attendance was 34,513 of whom 13,008 were members of the shillies sex. The club owners thought it was a bright idea when they inaugurated the Ladies Day affair. Now they are wondering if they haven't built their own Frankenstein.

Several thousand men with a bucket in hand were turned away in Brooklyn yesterday because the gals had the forenoon to get there early and fill the park.

Henry Picard Wins 'Man of Week' Title

By International News Service

Henry Picard draws the little brass ring this week for his sensational 37-hole victory over Bryon Nelson in the final round of the P. G. A. championship, the toughest golf tournament in the world to win.

Fine as this victory was, we feel more inclined to give Henry the little brass ring for his victory over himself rather than over Nelson.

You see, Picard doesn't like match play. In fact, he was so disgusted with himself after being eliminated in the P. G. A. at Pinehurst in 1936 that he said then he would never play it again.

Strangely enough, although Henry has won several commercial tournaments, he had never before won one of the big championships.

This is doubly strange in view of the fact that he is one of the greatest golfers in the world, with a sound, all-around game. He is not the longest driver in the world, but he's long enough off the tees to hold his own with any except the superdrivers.

He is a master with his approach shots and dead on the greens. For further details on this, see Bryon Nelson.

Although he had never before won a major title he has always been a good money maker. In fact, up to July 15 this year he was leading the professionals with $3177 to his credit.

The tall, slender 32-year-old pro hails from Plymouth, Mass. But he has lived so long at Charleston, S. C., and Hershey, Pa., and has traveled so much, that he has lost most of his New England accent.

He has a quick temper but he is not one of those club-blowing individuals. He speaks in short, clipped accents.

Henry never mulls over anything. He acts on the spur of the moment. And that's just the way he plays golf. You'll never find him taking half an hour to line up a putt.

He won the first tournament he ever entered—the Carolina Open in 1925, and he led all the money winners in his first venture on the winter circuit in 1934-1935.

Baysides Play Colored Giants

Baysides of Nantasket, Hull, will play the strong Philadelphia Colored Giants tomorrow afternoon at Bayside Park and will use Johnny Wedemeyer from Chicago, Boston University freshman, against the colored stars. Wedemeyer, who gave the Arlington Pals but two hits last Sunday and whiffed 15 recently, joined Russ Lynch's club and will hurl for the remainder of the summer.

The Baysides lineup includes Timmy Ready, formerly of Boston College, who covers second base and is the team's leading batter; Joe Ahearn, catcher from Villanova; Bobby Mitchell, Hingham high, first base; Eddie Morgan of Holy Cross, third base; Walter Murphy, Amherst, shortstop; Charley Gumbert, Waltham, left field; John Terry, Boston College, center field; and Billy Morgan, Hudson, right field.

The Baysides play night ball during August.

Cuba Leads Canada In Court Joust

HAVANA, July 22 (AP)—Cuba took the first point in its first round Davis Cup series with Canada. Ricardo Morales defeated Bruce Hall, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

The second singles encounter between Ellis Tarsalis of Canada and Jose Agüero was suspended in the third set because of rain and will be continued tomorrow afternoon before the doubles. Tarsalis took the first set and Agüero the second, each at 7-5, and Tarsalis led 2-0 in the third.

WEST WINS TITLE

Horsemen Wait Gong at 'Rock'

SALEM, N. H., July 22—The seventh season of horseracing in New Hampshire will get under way on Monday when Bob Frend tinkles his little starter's bell and sends the horses lickety-splitting away on a mile race.

The barns are crowded to their capacity with the finest and most expensive array of horse-flesh in the history of the little track, and this morning, when Racing Secretary John P. Turner sat in his slot and started to take entries for the opening day of racing, it was with the exception that large fields would be the rule rather than the exception.

More than $250,000 was spent in improving the old Rock, but the entire work has been completed, well in advance, and the opening day crowd will be treated to a new grandstand, with 1000 new box seats, with better visibility through out, and with a mezzanine floor for greater convenience.

George H. Hull, president of Saratoga, steward of the New York Jockey Club, and the first man of the turf in America, will be present to cast his vote of approval on the old Rock, and from Maryland will come Carter Bowie, after whose father the Bowie track was named. Feature races for opening day will be the Lawrence at a mile and one-sixteenth, and the Manchester at six furlongs, a pair of allowance races which are expected to bring out the best routers and sprinters on the grounds. The first of the traditional features will be run Wednesday, when the $2500 added Salem Stakes will be held.

The same fine set of officials who supervised the racing last year, when 43 per cent of the favorites won to set an all-time record for New England, will return in a body. They include Charles R. Stickney, steward representing the State of New Hampshire; Herman B. Conklin, Tom Thorp, and William D. Almy, stewards representing the association; starter Bob Frend, and Racing Secretary John P. Turner.

Johnstown After $50,000 Purse

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP)—Johnstown, winner of five of the six major stakes for three-year-olds this year, goes back to work today in the $50,000 Arlington classic.

The presence of "Big John" has his eight challengers almost scared silly. In fact, no more than five possibly will face him. He had no trouble in defeating his rivals in the Kentucky Derby, the Wood Memorial, Belmont, Whithers and Dwyer Stakes.

If victorious today, the big son of Jamestown, owned by William Woodward, New York, beaten only in the muddy Freshness, undoubtedly will be crowned king of three-year-olds for 1934.

The race at a mile and a quarter will have a gross value of $50,000, with $37,275 going to the triumphant owner.

If the track remains fast Johnstown likely will go in the post a 3 to 5 favorite, with Chalden, the Maryland horse owned by W. L. Bryan, as second choice. Chalden led Johnstown home in the Freshness. Johnstown will be ridden by Jockey Jimmy Stuel, who piloted him in all his victories this season.

NEW HAVEN R.R. FACES STATE BAN

S.S. Harding's lifeboat rescue crew works over body of drowned passenger, but resuscitation efforts fail. Death has won.

Members of ship's crew stand ready to perform last rites and tip plank which will slip canvas-wrapped body into the waiting sea.

Down the plank slides the lead-weighted body, and a moment later the vast Atlantic has become the grave of another man.

Burial at Sea—The camera dramatically records an epic of the sea. With cry "Man Overboard" engines of liner S. S. Harding are stopped, lifeboat lowered. Body of Matti Karbacka, a passenger, is recovered, but he is dead. Capt. James E. Roberts ordered sea burial and, in dense fog off Grand Banks, the ship's master reads the burial ceremony. The body is consigned back to the waters in which he died—and the ship sails on.

Premiere Crashers—Trading on their resemblance to Myrna Loy and Joan Crawford, Beth Stevens (left) and Barbara Coutourier of the University of California crashed the "non-crashable" Hollywood premiere of "Four Feathers."
